RATE COMMISSION UPHOLD MOTOR-CAR

Complaint of Madison and Monroe Citizens Against Innovation on the Illinois Central Is Dismissed.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 20.—That opponents to the introduction of gasoline motor cars on railroads are to be likened to the people who opposed the original introduction of the steam locomotive was declared yesterday by the Wisconsin railroad rate commission in a decision dismissing the complaint of citizens of Madison and Monroe. The complaint declared that the motor car installed in service by the Illinois Central between Madison and Freeport is extremely dangerous and inadequate as a means of transportation. The commission declared that this car, which is being operated by the Union Pacific, North-Western and other roads on branch and poorly maintained lines, is a mark of a distinct epoch in railroad transportation, will result in great economy for the railroads and greater benefit to the traveling public.

If the first lot of singers and musicians that Uncle Sam has sent to Panama to amuse the Canal workers do not make good, why not try the above attractions?

OPIUM TRAFFIC IN THE PHILIPPINES

Law Prohibiting Its Importation Becomes Effective on March First.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Tomorrow is the date fixed for the law prohibiting the importation of opium into the Philippines to become effective. For many years a large quantity of opium has been consumed in the islands, mainly by the large Chinese element, but more recently the habit of opium smoking has been rapidly extending among the native Filipinos and even among the American residents. Little effort has been made by influential persons in the islands to secure an extension of time in regard to putting the law into effect. Acting on the advice of the Insular authorities Congress has declined to grant any extension of time and the internal revenue officers have been directed to employ their utmost efforts to stop the traffic from this date. There will doubtless be many attempts to smuggle the drug into the islands, but the authorities believe that in the course of time it will be possible to bring about a total stoppage of the traffic.

WHITE SOX START ON TRAINING TRIP

Two Sections of the Squad Will Cover Nearly Fifteen Thousand Miles.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., Feb. 20.—What is believed to be the greatest training trip ever taken by a baseball club began today with the departure of the Chicago team of the American league for Los Angeles. The magnitude of the undertaking can be imagined from the fact that the two sections of the squad will cover nearly 15,000 miles before they return to Chicago or open the season, April 14.
The club, accompanied by many press representatives and a delegation of enthusiastic fans, makes the trip in a special train that is one of the finest that ever pulled out of Chicago. The train is due in Kansas City tomorrow morning and will reach El Paso at 5 p. m. Monday. From El Paso the train will proceed direct to Los Angeles, which city it will reach Tuesday evening. Both sections of the team will play games in Los Angeles and San Francisco, and one or the other of the teams will be seen in Oakland, Visalia, Santa Barbara, Salinas and Bakersfield.
Practically every state in the south and middle western states will be traversed by one or the other of the squads during the month that will be spent in jumping from city to city on the return trip from Southern California. Among the points where games have been scheduled are New Orleans, Montgomery, Birmingham, Nashville, Phoenix, Tucson, Douglas, El Paso, Albuquerque, Oklahoma City, Hutchinson, Wichita, Topeka, Kansas City, Sioux City, Omaha, Des Moines and Burlington.
Close home stops will be made to allow exhibition games at Evansville, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, South Bend, Champaign, Ft. Wayne, Galveston, Peoria, Bloomington, Decatur and Springfield.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS TALK PROHIBITION

In Gathering at Fort Worth Leading Democrats of State Are in Favor of It.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 20.—There is a possibility that the democrats of Texas, following the example set by the republicans of the state of Maine, may incorporate prohibition among the planks of their platform. In response to the call recently sent out by a gathering of democratic representatives of almost the entire state met here today to discuss the question. Many of the party leaders expressed themselves in favor of the plan to procure the submission of the prohibition question to the next democratic primary election in Texas, which is to be held this summer.

NEWS FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

Republican Conventions of Kansas and Ohio Come Off This Week.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Political happenings promise to absorb much of the attention of the people of the United States during the coming week. Attracting most attention will be the republican state conventions in Ohio and Kansas to select delegates to the national convention. Both states are expected to instruct for Taft. In Louisiana the so-called Black and Tan faction of the republican party will hold a state convention to name delegates to Chicago. The republican state central committee of New York will meet Saturday to fix the date and place for holding the state convention.
There will be more or less activity among the Presidential aspirants during the week. Secretary Taft is slated for three addresses in Massachusetts and William J. Bryan will be heard at various points in the South and Middle West.
The only democratic convention of the week that will attract more or less attention will be the progress of the American battleship fleet up the western coast of South America, the annual Mardi Gras festivities in New Orleans, Mobile and Pensacola, the adjourned annual meeting of the Illinois Central railroad in Chicago, and a closely contested general election in New Brunswick.
The week promises to be unusually prolific of big news events for followers of athletics and sports. For automobile there will be the annual races over the Ormond-Daytona beach course in Florida, the progress of the New York-to-Paris race and the opening of the annual automobile exhibition in Boston. Devotees of baseball will be interested in the departure of many of the big league teams for their spring practice work, and for followers of pugilism there will be the bout at Los Angeles between Battling Nelson and "Jimmy" Britt.

This morning in the municipal court he was sentenced to fifteen days in the work house. He threatens to kill his family and burn the house when he gets out. A peace bond will probably be required of him.

ABE HUMMEL WILL LEAVE BLACKWELL ISLAND SOON

Notorious New York Lawyer's Twelve-Month Term In Prison Will Be Up In Two Weeks.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Feb. 20.—Abe Hummel, who has been sejourning on Blackwell's Island for nearly a year as a result of the part he played in the sensational Dodge-Morris divorce case, is about to emerge from his retreat a free man. He has been an exemplary prisoner during his stay on the island and this has shortened his year's sentence to ten months. His term will therefore come to an end two weeks hence.
Various stories are current as to Hummel's plans for the future. His family and friends have advised him to go abroad and remain until the events of the recent past have been forgotten in a measure by the public. But Hummel is a man who has lived on publicly ever since he landed in New York from his native Boston years ago. Publicity is as breath to his nostrils, and it is not likely that he will be content to remain very long out of the limelight.
He will not be able to resume his practice as a lawyer on account of having been disbarred. Furthermore the revelations in his own case and also in the Thaw case in which he was indirectly involved would make it impossible for him to regain his former standing in the profession, even if the disbarment were removed. Consequently the shrewd Blackwell lawyer will be forced to find a new field in which to exercise his undeniable talents. It is said that he intends to become a real estate broker and an operator. He is still possessed of a considerable fortune of his own. And many of his friends and clients of former years will certainly find it to their interest to lend him a helping hand if he needs it.
Notwithstanding the report circulated some months ago that he was in a dying condition Hummel will leave prison in better health than he has been for years. The fresh air of his island retreat, the wholesome food and, above all, the removal from the pleasures and dissipation of the Great White Way have done wonders for the little lawyer in restoring him to health. It is true that he has been lodged in the hospital and has enjoyed all the privileges and immunities of a hospital patient. But he was never in better health in his life than he is today.
Although pictures have appeared in the sensational press showing Hummel in the stripes of a Blackwell's Island prisoner, no one on the island has seen him in that garb. Under some kind of arrangement with somebody the little lawyer has been allowed to keep on the garb of broadway.
Another action is that he has been employed in the lake shop of the prison or broken stone on the island. But, as a matter of fact, the hardest work he has done since he was sentenced, is to play pinocle with some of his fellow patients and to read the daily papers, which he has received regularly from his relatives and friends.
Hummel's most constant visitors are his nephew, Abe Katzenberg, and his two sisters, one of whom, it is said, is at the prison hospital to see her brother as often as the prison rules permit or as often as they can be stretched to permit. And it is common talk among the other prisoners that the rules are very elastic where Hummel is concerned.

THE BUCKEYE CLUB ERECTS NEW HOME

It is expected that the Buckeye club will share its occupancy jointly with the Ohio Society of New York, thus bringing about a merger of the two societies. A total membership of about 1300 is represented by the two clubs.

B. J. Berry, Who Has Been Awarded A Carnegie Medal For Saving The Life of James Jameson.

Gavenhurst, Ont., Feb. 20.—John Berry of this place has been awarded one of the Carnegie medals for saving the life of a companion and he tells the story of how it happened, as follows:
"James Jameson and a companion tried to cross a channel in a terrific gale to their island home, a distance of about two miles. The boat was upset and the two men clung to the overturned boat for hours in icy waters and nearly perished. The Saint Orde, the boat of which I am mate, came upon them, never dreaming it was men out in such a storm. A life line was thrown to them and Jameson tried to hold it while being hauled to the boat. When about 30 feet from the shore the heavy sea broke his hold and he seemed to have given up. I jumped from the second deck and in some way got to him before he had gone down very far, and held him up until a second life line was thrown to me. I held to him with one arm and to the line with the other and both of us were hauled to the steamer."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Manitowish, Wis., Feb. 20.—A coroner's jury at Maple Grove yesterday held Charles Hayes for the murder of William Kuchenberg, of Marinette, at Maple Grove Thursday night. Witnesses testified that there had been no quarrel and that apparently the murder was committed in cold blood. A Marinette report says that trouble over the property of Hayes' mother may have caused the murder as Hayes and Kuchenberg and other relatives had been in frequent disputes over the division of the estate, which includes real estate at Marinette. Hayes was arraigned in municipal court this morning and will be bound over to circuit court. The man refuses to make a statement but declares that he knows nothing of the crime.

SO WRITES ELMER BULLARD

Immediate Rise in Prices, However,
Is Not to Be Anticipated—Michigan and Wisconsin Fleeces.

There is a better feeling in the market. The direct cause of the improvement is the change for the better in the piece goods situation, reports from New York showing that the volume of orders is increasing, manufacturers having booked a fair amount of contracts during the current week. The season is late and it is certainly true that buyers should begin operations on a larger scale than has been noticeable since the beginning of the year. With longer delays, it might be impossible for manufacturers to make the goods and deliver them in time. If the improvement in the situation is maintained, a larger demand for wool must follow, as many mills are badly off for stock, having reduced their reserves very materially during the past few months, when even the moderate running of machinery called for the consumption of a fair amount of raw material. The general outlook for goods and wool is considered brighter, but any sudden resumption of activity is not expected. Buyers of all discretions are very cautious and dis-inclined to increase their obligations.
So far as wool is concerned, the tendency is toward conservatism, no consumer being disposed to anticipate his requirements.

A steady decrease in the percentage of idle machinery is promised,
and a steady increase in the consumption of raw material. In the latter respect there is room for considerable improvement, late estimates being that not over 50 per cent of the machinery of the country is employing wool. "We never run a little machinery as we are running today," says President Wood of the American Woolen Co.; "65 per cent of the machinery in the company's mills is idle."

'Status of Prices
There is a steeper tone to the wool market. Prices have suffered a severe reduction from the high point of last year, and while no recovery is thought possible under the circumstances of trade as existing at present, there is a growing belief that bottom has been reached. Just at present, as has been the case for several weeks, the price in a measure depends upon the desire of the holder to sell, almost any reasonable bid being accepted rather than allow the buyer to go home empty-handed, or perhaps supply his needs from some other source. But with more argument on the part of manufacturers to secure supplies there should be a change in this respect, and from a wholly buyers' market the market should tend more in favor of the seller.
The secured bids of 55 to 57 cents for good territory wool is not high; at least, by comparison with the cost say a year ago. The cheapness of certain grades of wool is likely to commend them to consumers if they can find a buyer for a fabric to be made out of them. On the whole, the situation and outlook is brighter, and in the opinion of many authorities the end of the period of depression has arrived. In other words, the turning point has been reached and future developments are likely to be more favorable than at present.

In Australia and New Zealand the season is practically over. At Buenos Ayres the season drags along, with buyers holding back and the offerings apparently in excess of the demand.
It is the between sales period in London. The next series of auction sales will open March 17. It appears that at the late auction sales of the 30, 000 bales carried over, 21,000 bales were never offered.

In Australia all fear of drought seems to have been dispelled for recently, rain has been falling in heavy rain throughout New South Wales. The prospects for the lamb-ing and the next wool clip must therefore be satisfactory. Advises also report a falling off in wool exports during the last two months from Australia. At the end of November, owing to the early shearing, these exports showed an increase of nearly 200,000 bales, compared with the provisional wool year. At the end of December this increase had gone down more than half, whilst at the end of January the increase had been turned into a deficit of about 70,000 bales, 100,000 bales of which seem to be in Australian produce and 10,000 bales in New Zealand. No doubt this contraction of exports is caused by the unusual extent of the Christmas holidays in all the Australian markets, where auctions were suspended for a month.

Michigan and Wisconsin Fleeces Store business is reported in the unwashed at 22 to 23c. An outside selling limit is now 24c. A fair amount of 1/2 blood changed hands at 28c for good; from 27 to 28c is quoted. Limited sales of 3/4 have been at 30 to 31c, and even lower prices are heard of as having been accepted on sales, the terms of which are kept private.

These prices are for wools on grade, sixty days time, delivered east. In the Chicago wool market, the prices are practically unchanged.

Yours truly,
ELMER BULLARD.

BROWN OF HARVARD
AT MYERS THEATRE

Eastern College Atmosphere Was Made Very Alluring by Henry Woodruff and His Able Associates.

"Brown of Harvard" is not a great epic of college life, but it gives some entertaining glimpses of the "nobody works but father" phase of existence in the care-free, Elysian meadows which encircle the "book-worms' province. Christian fount and Merian spring are left to their votaries, the fussy old professors and the "grinds" and even the single remainder of their propaganda has to justify his place in the picture by becoming a candidate for the crew. "The outside world is brought in to help provide a colored plot and situations which will sustain interest, but it is the atmosphere of altruism, youthful exuberance, chivalry, idealism, and devotion to the strenuous, which provides the real charm.

This atmosphere is created by a superb scenic reproduction of the college main den, a realistic four-mile creek which has some necessary incongruous features, blinding molecules well rendered, references to indignant fathers, "good old pals," profundly disbursements of the coin of the realm in loans and wages, love episodes, class wars, and college yells, and the whole permeated with that rare spirit of good fellowship and never-wearying loyalty.

Henry Woodruff gives an admirable delineation of the genial, generous, lovable "Tom Brown," and Eugene O'Brien as "Claxton Madden" and William Russell as "Happy Thurston," are splendid in their roles of typical college men. Louis Haines makes a very good comedy character of "Tabby Anderson" and Frederick Forrester as "Thorne," the strolach who is forced by a chain of circumstances to fall the "Vandy" in an emergency; Gordon Johnston as the craven "Wilfred Kenyon"; Robert Stowe Gillis
the flannel-mouthed coach of the crew, J. C. King as "Colton," the poker-sharp who preys on his fellow students; Frank Willard as the blubbery doorman "O'Hara"; and Helma Byrne as the sweet and whimsical "Evelyn Kenyon" are all excellent in their respective parts.

There are plenty of clever lines, several thrilling climaxes, and an ingenious and startling denouement built out of the ever interesting theme of the love of a man for a maid which grips the onlooker just before the curtain falls.

The attendance last night was fair, but the box-office receipts did not quite pay the expenses of an organization which costs its management $2,000 a week.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

The song of the mockingbird, the green foliage of forest and orchard, the golden fruit ready to harvest, are in sharp contrast to the blizzard and snow blockade of a northern winter, and as you read of storm and cold, it hardly seems possible that a stretch of country, covered by a few hours' ride, is the connecting link between winter and perpetual summer.

Yet the change is so gradual, as the southbound train glides out of the snow-belt into the gray and somber landscape of Kentucky and Tennessee, and the next morning dashes on through the turpentine forests of Georgia and Florida, that before the traveler realizes it he is in the land of birds and oranges, where the overcoat is a burden in midwinter.

The climate is not the only contrast which attracts attention, for climate makes environment, and when so mild that children go unshod the year around, the simple life abounds, and when you mingle with the natives and study them in their homes, where an income of two or three hundred dollars satisfies their wants as well as their needs, the fact dawns upon you that life is more or less complete without a great amount of wealth.

An old gentleman who lived by himself in a little tumble-down shack, sold his fruit crop last month for $44 and seemed well satisfied. If he adds $60 more to his income, during the year, he will do well. He is an old Chicago man, came here for his health a dozen years ago, found it, and also discovered the art of living on $100 a year.

A young man and his wife, with the old grandfather at the tiller, floated down the river this morning, with no complaint to offer except that the fish wouldn't bite. They were a contented family, camping where night overtook them, and getting out of life more than they put into it.

The little school, a mile away, is kept by a northern woman. She has 18 scholars enrolled, but as they never go to school when they can go anywhere else, the attendance is small and uncertain.

Ignorance in the south is not confined to the colored race, neither is lack of energy nor ambition. The work that is done is of the haphazard sort, and yet the people are contented and apparently happy. It is a good place to retire on a very moderate income; all that is necessary is to adopt prevailing customs, and cease to worry.

In sharp contrast to these conditions, so prevalent in many parts of the south, and especially on the west coast of southern Florida, is the splendor of the east coast, across the state 100 miles away.

From Jacksonville south 300 miles this coast is the great winter resort for New York and other eastern cities, and evidences of wealth are so abundant that the man with a moderate income is lost in the shuffle.

Many years ago a vessel loaded with coconuts was wrecked near the southern point of this coast, and when the fruit washed ashore the natives planted it, and today Palm Beach is noted for its beautiful groves of coconut trees.

Here is located the largest and most luxurious hotel in the world, a frame structure building with accommodations for 3,000 guests.

to Carlo of America, where the day's business is considered light when less than $150,000 changes hands at the gaming tables.

No state in the Union presents within the same radius so marked a contrast, and yet the northern turns away from the luxuries of the east coast to the simple life of his southern brother, across the state, with a feeling that he has discovered the secret of how to be happy on a very modest income.

Life is full of contrasts, and the viewpoint has everything to do with conclusions. There is perhaps but one man in the United States who is capable of jumping into any emergency and solving all sorts of problems offhand. That man is our worthy President, Theodore Roosevelt.

When the panic struck the country last October the railroads were the first to feel its effects. Stagnation in business speedily followed, and today with 350,000 freight cars, and 10,000 locomotives idle, the companies are straining every effort to keep out of bankruptcy.

The southern roads have been hit the hardest, for restrictive regulations on the part of several states, combined with congressional interference, reduced incomes and wiped-out profits before the panic struck.

In efforts to economize and save ruin, salaries have been cut, and the wage scale is liable to share the same fate.

The president of the Louisville & Nashville recently sent out a letter to the engineers employed on the system, all of whom are members of the "Brotherhood." In this letter he took occasion to call attention to conditions, referring, among other things, to the 8-hour telegraph law and acts of legislation, in some of the states, detrimental to railroad interests, and suggest the necessity for economy.

In some way the President got hold of one of these letters and made it a text for a message to his Interstate Commerce commission, in which they were instructed to investigate charges and report.

Anyone but a blind man knows that the railroads have been the butt of all sorts of adverse legislation. The two-cent fare law, passed by many of the states, has crippled the passenger department, while one road in the south lost $2,000,000 last year as the result of freight regulation.

There are 50 towns in Wisconsin today, deprived of telegraph service, because congress knew more about the railroad business than the men engaged in it, and so adopted, an 8-hour day for telegraph operators.

What is true of Wisconsin is true of every other state. Hundreds of small offices have been closed in the sparsely settled regions of the south.

A division superintendent said the other day, "Our station agents who were on duty 12 hours, spent less than an hour at the keyboard. They had more leisure than any class of men on the payroll and were well satisfied with their hours and work."

The point of view has everything to do with it. Railroads and business may be theoretically run from the White House, but failure and demoralization will result.

AN EXQUISITELY JETTED DINNER GOWN.

Among the many jetted gowns seen this winter at fashionable dinners and dances none is more artistic than the one illustrated here. It shows a combination of patterned design and stripes; the lower part of the décolleté bodice and the upper part of the skirt being arranged in fine stripes formed of jetted and shirred design. The upper portion of the bodice and the center portion of the skirt has a scattering of the jetted effect for ground work, with a bold design in grape leaves emphasized by the simple background. Inside the décolleté.

There is never a question as to the absolute purity and healthfulness of food raised with

The action used in Newman Bros. Company pianos contains a patented device that has done more to increase the wearing qualities of the piano than any other improvement that has been made in piano manufacture for years. We refer to the brass flange on which the hammer butt rests. Formerly the joining of the hammer butt to the action rail was by a wood joint, and any dampness that would cause the joint to swell would make it stick and often split and break off, all possibility of which is done away with by the introduction of the brass flange.

One must listen to these fine pianos to learn the full value of the powerful yet sweet tone made possible by combining fine material and the best of workmanship, and we take this opportunity to invite you to come to our display room and learn more of this fine line of instruments. We will be very glad to give full information on request.

BELOIT TEAM WAS BADLY DEFEATED

By The Janesville High School Basketball Team—Milton Girls Were Victorious.

Janesville administered a decisive defeat to the Beloit high school basketball team last evening, beating them by a score of 55 to 18. The big score was rather a result of the poor play of the Beloit team than on account of the good playing of the local five.

The Janesville team were woefully weak in throwing baskets and if they had been up against a good team last evening the result might have been very much different.

The Milton College girls team defeated the high school girls team in the afternoon in a close game by a score of 9 to 1. The team work of the visitors was very good and proved too strong for the Janesville girls.

On next Friday, March 6th, the boys' team will play the Whitewater Normal team and the girls' team will try conclusions with the girls' team of the Monroe high school. The games will begin at eight o'clock in the evening.

The teams last evening lined up as follows:

JUDGE GRIMM HEARD MOTIONS YESTERDAY

Two Different Motions Were Argued in Circuit Court Yesterday

day.

Before Judge Grimm yesterday a motion to show cause why the defendant should not pay temporary alimony and suit money in the divorce action of Ella W. Sathday vs. J. W. Sathday came up for argument but was continued until Monday when it will be taken up at one thirty before the jury are drawn.

The parties are both from Beloit and non-support, habitual drunkenness and cruel and inhuman treatment are alleged as the grounds for the divorce.

The matter of the guardianship of James A. Mathews was also argued and an appeal from the county court was taken under advisement by the judge.

In the case of E. C. McGowan vs. L. A. Richardson an order to show cause why an injunction pendente lite should not be granted against the defendant to prevent him from carrying out a contract with the town of Milton and to restrain the treasurer from collecting illegal taxes, was argued. The plaintiff here claims that the town had no right to have the sidewalks put in and now seeks to restrain their being paid for.

Judge Grimm returned home last evening and will come back Monday. At two o'clock Monday the jury will be drawn and the jury trial on the calendar begun.

SHAH AND ALCORTA ESCAPE ASSASSINS

ARGENTINE PRESIDENT TARGET FOR BOMB.

PERSIAN EFFORT FATAL

Three of Monarch's Outriders Are Slain While Explosive Tossed
at South American Falls to Accomplish End.

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 20.—Dr. J. Figueroa Alcorta, president of the republic, Friday evening was the object of an abortive attempt at assassination at the hands of a native of Argentina. He hurled a crude bomb at the president as he alighted from his carriage in front of his residence. The missile did not explode. The assassin, who is believed to be insane, was arrested, and three other persons who were acting in a suspicious manner also were taken into custody by the police. Dr. Alcorta was not at all perturbed. He considers the action that of an insane man.

Official Account of Escape.
The following official statement regarding the occurrence was given out at the residence of President Alcorta Friday night: "His excellency was alighting from a carriage about six o'clock when an individual, who afterwards was identified as an Argentine of mixed blood named Solano Roca, dropped at the president's feet a bomb, which, happily, did not explode. Dr. Alcorta with great coolness promptly kicked the infernal machine away from him while his aide de camp, Capt. Anubla, seized the criminal and prevented his escape. The police immediately procured a pail of water into which they placed the bomb, which emitted a sulphurous odor.

Bomb in Paint Can.
"President Alcorta meantime had turned to expostulate with his would-be assassin, but owing to the possibility of the bomb still exploding he was gently forced by his aide de camp up on the porch of his residence. The police afterwards arrested three men prowling in the neighborhood as suspicious characters. The bomb was made from a common paint can and is believed to contain about ten kilos of explosive."

Shah of Persia.

Shah Also Escapes.
Tehran, Persia, Feb. 20.—An attempt was made in this city Friday afternoon to assassinate the shah of Persia by a bomb. His majesty was not hurt. Three of the outriders who were accompanying him at the time were killed.

The shah owes his escape to the precautions taken to protect him from just such an attempt as was made Friday afternoon. He was on his way to a nearby town where he intended to pass a few days. The procession had left the palace and was traversing a narrow street when two bombs were hurled down at it from the roof of a house.

How Assassins Are Outwitted.
One exploded in the air, but the other struck the ground near the shah's automobile. This missile in exploding killed the three outriders, wounded the chauffeur and a score of bystanders and shattered the vehicle. The shah, however, was not in his automobile. He had taken the precaution to send the motor car ahead and ride himself in a carriage further in the rear of the procession. The motor car was a closed one, and it was thought that the sovereign was inside.

MISERY FROM INDIGESTION VANISHES IN FIVE MINUTES

Diaphepsin will digest for you 3000 grains of food and overcome a sour stomach five minutes after.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulency or Catarrh of Stomach, it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diaphepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become afflicted with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, ill-humors, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

GREAT COAL STRIKE SEEN MINERS AND OPERATORS FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT.

Indianapolis Session Proves Fruitless
—John Mitchell Announces
New Session.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 20.—The joint committee of coal operators and miners of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania, comprising the central committee of the field, adjourned Friday evening since they, without reaching an agreement upon the proposition to call a joint convention to re-establish the interstate agreement and fix a wage scale to go into effect April 1, when the present scale expires.

The national convention of the United Mine Workers of America will be reconvened in Indianapolis March 12. This was announced by President Mitchell late Friday evening.

The final disagreement is the climax to months of argument and strategic sparring for position which characterized joint meetings held in October, December and January. Unless concessions are made by one or both sides the union bituminous coal miners of the country will cease work on March 31.

There were four important motions Friday before the final disagreement. President Chapman of the Ohio operators moved that the present wage scale be continued during April, that more time be given to reach an agreement. Secretary Wilson of the miners' organization, speaking for it, opposed the motion and it was defeated. He warned the operators that there would be no continuance of mining after March 31 unless a wage agreement was in process of being considered. President Traer of the Illinois operators moved that the joint committee adjourn until March 10. This was defeated by the Ohio and western Pennsylvania operators. Vice-President James Clark of the western Pennsylvania miners moved to adjourn sine die, and this was defeated by the Ohio and Illinois miners. A motion to adjourn until March 16 also met with defeat. The last motion, made at 6 p. m. Friday evening by A. M. Ogile of the Indiana operators, to adjourn sine die, was carried.

HIDDEN MISSIVE TELLS ALLO PLOT

SIX ARRESTS IN FATHER LEO MURDER CASE.

WRITES LETTER TO SON

Assassin of Denver (Col.) Priest Bur ies Epistle in Blankets, but It Is Unearthed by Police Chief—Sus pected Accomplices Taken.

Denver, Col., Feb. 20.—Chief of Police Michael Delaney said late Friday that a letter written by Giuseppe Allo, slayer of Father Leo Heinrichs, which was found in the cell occupied by him while in jail at Colorado Springs, contained proof that men in six cities in the United States were connected with him in the killing of Father Leo.

Almost at the moment that he made this statement came news that six arrests had been made in eastern cities of men suspected of being accomplices of the murderer.

Arrests in Six Cities.

J. Vanni was arrested in New York Friday charged with being the chief of the society; while in Pittsburgh Orestes Scott, Thomas Calabrese, Orestes Malval and Mallo Tolmei were locked up for being implicated as members of the society. The police of New York and Pittsburgh say they have evidence which connects these men with the killing of Father Leo. Arrests have been made in four other cities, but because the police of these cities are shadowing other men no information is given out as to who the arrested men are.

Find Letter Concealed.

The letter addressed to Allo's son in Sicily was found concealed in the blankets of the cot on which Allo slept while in jail at Colorado Springs. Its contents, translated, it is asserted, indicate that Father Leo was the victim of a plot hatched outside of Denver and that Allo came here to commit the murder, which was to be the signal for others. Until all the arrests have been made which the police contemplate Chief Delaney said he would not give out all the particulars in the case.

"The interests of the police department," he said, "require that the letter be not made public at this time. All that I can say is that the men in six cities have now become involved in this affair. I am corresponding with the police departments in these six cities. I will further say that I consider Allo one of the smartest criminals in the world today."

Allo to Plead Insanity.

That insanity will be the plea offered in defense of Allo was the positive statement of Baron Tosti, Italian consul, who, in company with ex-consul Corto and Attorney Widdicombe, visited the prisoner in the jail Friday. Baron Tosti, who is a physician, surgeon and recognized authority on diseases of the brain and nerves, said after the interview with the prisoner that, in his opinion, the man is insane. The consul intends to consult with well-known mental experts regarding Allo's condition.

WU TELLS OF BIG ARMY

CHINESE MINISTER ARRIVES IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Carries News of His Country's Plans for Soldierly Numbering 1,000,000 Men.

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—Carrying news of China's army of 1,000,000, Wu Ting Fang, for the second time appointed Chinese minister to this country, arrived Friday on the Pacific mail liner Siberia with a large retinue of secretaries and legation consulate attaches numbering 70 persons.

He brought with him now consuls for Mexico, Havana, New York and San Francisco, besides three nephews and three secretaries and seven other attaches for the Chinese legation at Washington, and 21 young students, who will enter various schools and colleges in this country. Minister Wu denied the report that he was the bearer of an appeal to Washington asking this country to assist in preserving the interests of China in Manchuria and protesting against the alleged aggression of Japan in that province, but admitted "there was some local friction."

"I have no such documents here," said Minister Wu, placing his hand to his breast pocket, "neither am I the bearer of such an appeal to President Roosevelt. I am giving you no evasive answer. I am not that kind of a man. If I was bringing such a note of protest I would rather frankly tell you so or else would decline to talk about it."

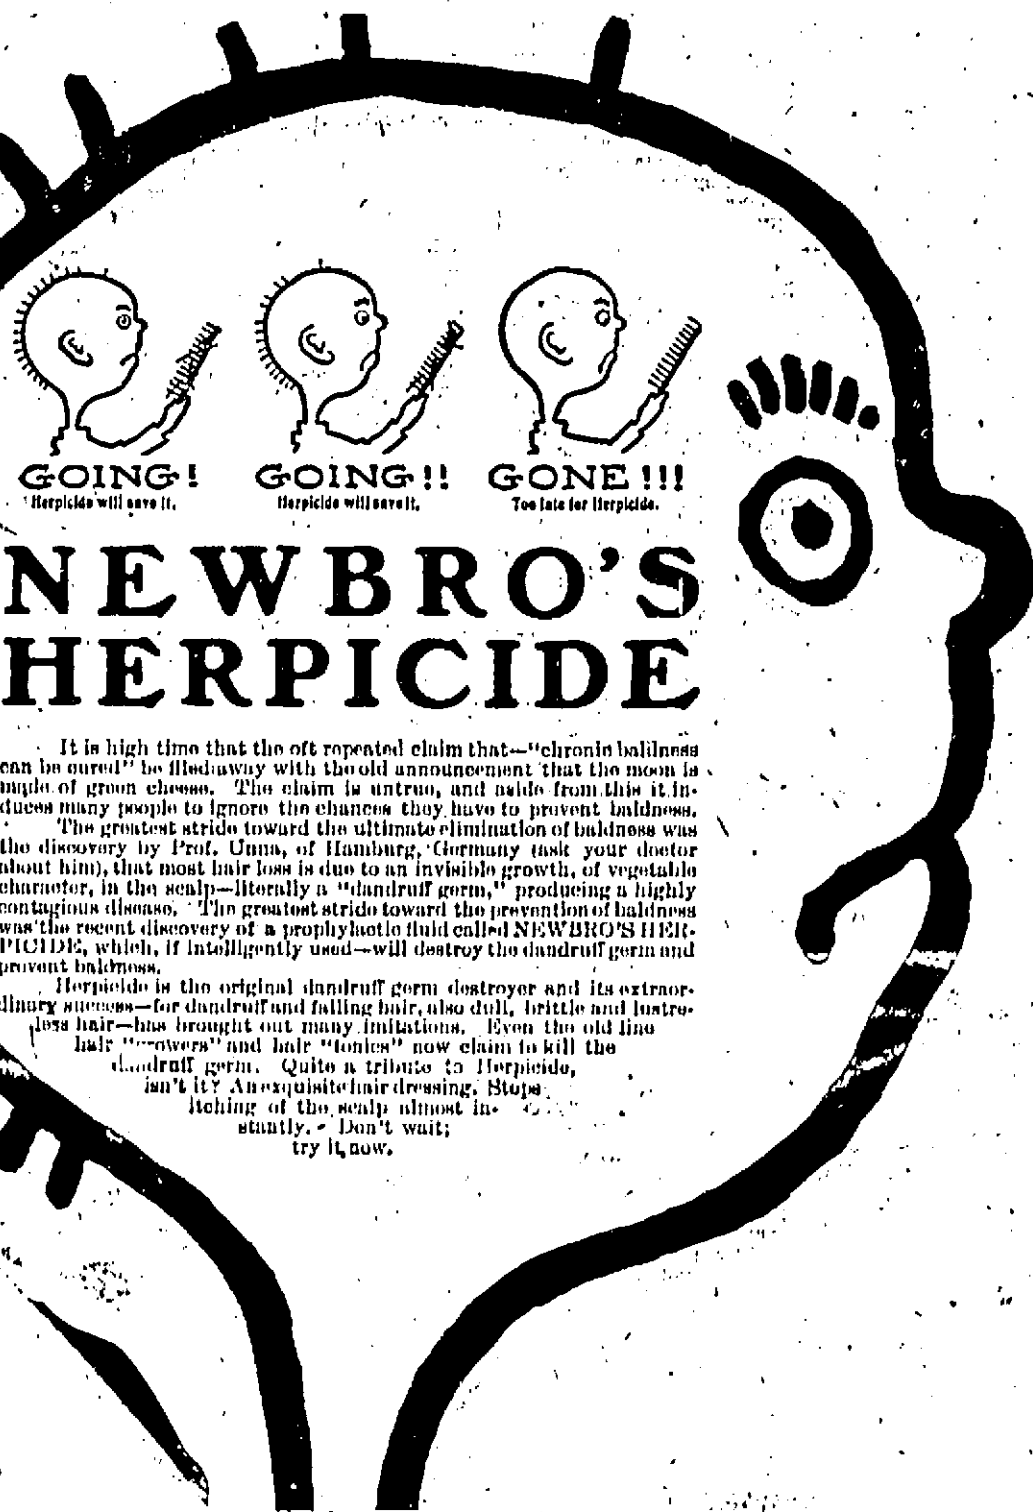

"The relations between Japan and China are cordial. There may be some friction, but it is local. That may occur in any country. So far as my knowledge goes, Japan has not violated the Portsmouth treaty with reference to the 'open door' policy in Manchuria." Touching upon the reorganization of the Chinese army Wu Ting Fang said: "Yes, China is organizing an army—a good army—a modern army."

"How large?"
"Really, I cannot say," he answered with a smile, "that's too long a story at this time."

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

It is high time that the oft repeated claim that—"chronic baldness can be cured" be fled away with the old announcement that the moon is made of green cheese. The claim is untrue, and aside from this it induces many people to ignore the chances they have to prevent baldness. The greatest stride toward the ultimate elimination of baldness was the discovery by Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany (ask your doctor about him), that most hair loss is due to an invisible growth, of vegetable character, in the scalp—literally a "dandruff germ," producing a highly contagious disease. The greatest stride toward the prevention of baldness was the recent discovery of a prophylactic fluid called NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE, which, if intelligently used—will destroy the dandruff germ and prevent baldness.

Herpicide is the original dandruff germ destroyer and its extraordinary success—for dandruff and falling hair, also dull, brittle and lustreless hair—has brought out many imitations. Even the old line hair "cures" and hair "tonics" now claim to kill the dandruff germ. Quite a tribute to Herpicide, isn't it? An exquisite hair dressing. Stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. Don't wait; try it now.

The Twenty-Ninth and How It Happened

FEBRUARY 29 AND LEAP YEAR

There are a great many people who do not understand the philosophy of leap year or how there comes to be an extra day—the 29th of February—every four years. Some even supposed that leap year was instituted by the Golden Rule only to confer upon it the privilege of "popping the question," or that February has 29 days that it might have a chance at the luck of odd numbers. The subject really involves certain important, needless which we are persuaded not more than one in a hundred clearly comprehend, and for that reason we shall try to elucidate it.

Our civil year is founded upon the period of the revolution of the earth about the sun. If the natural year had exactly 365 or 366 days there would be no trouble. The present year would consist of 365 days plus 48 minutes, 45.7 seconds.

Julius Caesar in 46 B. C. made the first reasonable and substantial reform. He saw that the natural year was about 365 1/4 days long. If the civil year he 365 days, it is a quarter of a day short of the solar year; four civil years would, therefore, lose just one day. He therefore ordered that every fourth civil year should have 366 days. This originated leap year and the 29th day of February.

This formed a very satisfactory solution for a great many centuries. If the solar year were exactly 365 1/4 days, there never would have arisen any occasion to reform the Julian calendar. But this fact is that every four years get in advance of the solar year 15 minutes; in a century this amounted to nearly a day.

The difference was getting to be important when Pope Gregory XIII. approved and ordered that 10 days be dropped from the calendar in order to bring the vernal equinox for all time on the 21st of March. To prevent a discrepancy in the future between the solar year and the civil year it was found that if only those centennial years of which the number after suppressing the two ciphers, is divisible by four, be regarded as leap year, the purpose is accomplished. That is centennial years such as 1700, 1800 and 1900, while divisible by four, are nevertheless, not leap years, but 2000, 2400, etc., are.

The origin of the name "leap year" is not clear. Many derivations are quoted, but none are satisfactory. Probably the most worthy supposition as to the origin of the term is that at first the extra day in the fourth year was not recognized legally as a day; that it was added or leaped over altogether, so that the legal year as opposed to the civil was in reality a leap year.

What is the origin of the gallant and delicate privilege which is extended on leap years to the fairest half of creation? Myth and history both have something to say on the matter. Myth refers it to no less a personage than St. Patrick, who was proposed to leap year by Saint Bridget, but Saint Patrick had taken a vow of celibacy; so he had to patch up the difficulty as best he could with a kiss and a silk gown.

And ever since then, concludes the legend, which, it is needless to say, is not found in Butler's "Lives of the Saints," or in any other work of hagiological authority. If a man refuses a leap year proposal he must pay.

So much for legend. And now for history. In the year 1288 the following law is said to have been passed in Scotland.

"It is statum and ordnat that during the reign of his majesty James the first, for 10 years known as leap years 1000 men judge of both high and low estate shall have liberty to bespeak ye man who likes, albeit he refuses to talk him to be his lawful wife, he shall be mulcted in ye sum of 100 pounds or less, as his estate may be; except and awis gif he can make it appear that he is betrothit afore-thir women he shall be free." A few years later a similar law was passed in France and received the approval of the king. It is also said that before Columbus sailed on his famous voyage a similar privilege was granted to the maidens of Genoa and Florence. There is no record of any lines imposed under the Scotch law nor any trace of statistics of the number of spinners who took advantage of it or of the French enactment.

Rossini, the musical composer, was born on February 29, 1792. On the 29th he celebrated what he called his 18th birthday, and in the pleasant companionship of mutual friends declared his deliberate purpose to "turn over a new leaf and disregard the frivolities of youth, and the indiscretions of his teens." Oddy enough, Rossini's jesting enumeration of his birthdays was not correct. He had forgotten that the year 1800 was not a leap year. Consequently his first birthday was in 1796 and his second not till 1864, making February 29, 1864, the seventeenth and not the eighteenth birthday.

THE MYSTERY

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE
And SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY M. CLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

"No careful what you are about," warned Treadon, addressing his superior officer sharply. For Barnett had all but let his charge drop. His face was a puffed mask of amaze and incredulity.

"Did you hear him speak my name—or am I dreaming?" he half-whispered. "Heard him plain enough. Who is he?"

The man's mouth closed, but he smiled a little—a singular, wry mouthed, winning smile. With that there sprang from behind the brush of beard, filling out the deep lines of emotion, a memory to the recognition of Barnett—a keen and gay countenance that whisked him back across seven years time to the days of Dewey and the Philippines.

"Hush! Hush, by the Lord!" he exclaimed. "Of the Laughing Lass?" cried Treadon.

"Of the Laughing Lass." Such a fury of eagerness burned in the face of Barnett that Treadon cautioned him. "See here, Mr. Barnett, you're not going to fire a broadside of disturbing questions at my patient yet awhile. It's in no condition."

But it was from the other that the questions came. Opening his eyes he whispered: "The sailor? Where?"

"Dead," said Treadon bluntly. Then, breaking his own rule of repression, he asked: "Did he come off the schooner with you?"

"Heck him up," was the straining answer. "Drifting."

The survivor looked around him, then into Barnett's face, and his mind, too, traversed the years.

"North Dakota?" he queried. "No. I've changed my ship," said Barnett. "This is the Wolverine."

"Where's the Laughing Lass?" Barnett shook his head. "Told me," he begged Slade. "Wait till you're stronger," admonished Treadon.

"Can't wait," said the weak voice. The eyes grew wild.

"Mr. Barnett, tell him the bare outline and make it short," said the surgeon.

"We sighted the Laughing Lass two days ago. She was in good shape, but deserted—that is, we thought she was deserted."

"The man nodded eagerly. 'I suppose you were aboard,' said Barnett, and Treadon made a quick gesture of impatience and rebuke.

"No," said Slade. "Left three—four—don't know how many nights ago."

The officers looked at each other. "Go on," said Treadon to his companion.

"We put a crew aboard in command of an ensign," continued Barnett, "and picked up the schooner the next night. Deserted. You must know about it. Where is Billy Edwards?"

"Never heard of him," whispered the other.

"Lives and McGuffee, then. They were there after—Great God, man!" he cried, his agitation breaking out. "Pull yourself together! Give us something to go on."

"Mr. Barnett," said the surgeon peremptorily. But the suggestion was working in the sick man's brain. He turned to the officers a face of horror.

"Your man, Edwards—the 'crow'—they left her? In the night?"

"What does he mean?" cried Barnett. "The night? You saw it?"

"Yes. We saw a strange light," answered Treadon soothingly. Slade half rose. "Lost! All lost!" he cried and fell back unconscious. Treadon exploded into curses. "See what you've done to my patient," he fumed. Barnett looked at him with contrite eyes.

"Better get out before he comes to," growled the surgeon. "See way to treat a man half dead of exhaustion."

It was nearly an hour before Slade came back to the world again. The doctor forbade him to attempt speech. But of one thing he would not be denied. There was a struggle for utterance, then:

"The volcano?" he rasped out. "Dead ahead," was the reply.

"Stand by!" gasped Slade. He strove to rise, to say something further, but endurance had reached its limit. The man was utterly done.

Dr. Treadon went on deck, his head sunk between his shoulders. For a minute he was in earnest talk with the captain. Presently the Wolverine's engines slowed down and she lay head to the waves, with just enough turn of the screw to hold her against the sea-way.

CHAPTER VII.

BY the following afternoon Dr. Treadon reported his patient as quite recovered.

"Starved for water," proffered the surgeon. "Thirsts fairly dried out. Soaked him up. Fed him broth. Put him to sleep. He's all right. Just wakes up to eat. Then off again like a two-year-old. Wonderful constitution."

"The gentleman wants to know if he can come on deck, sir," said an orderly.

"Waked up, eh? Come on, Barnett. Help me boost him on deck."

The two officers disappeared to return in a moment arm in arm with Ralph Slade.

Nearly twenty-four hours' rest and skillful treatment had done wonders. He was still a little glad to lean on the arms of his companions, but his eyes were bright and alert and his hollow cheeks mounted a slight color.

With the clothes lent him by Barnett, transformed his appearance and led Captain Parkinson to congratulate himself that he had not obeyed his first impulse to send the castaway forward with the men.

The officers pressed forward. "Mighty glad to see you out," "Hope you've got your pins under you again," "Old man, I'm mighty glad we came along."

The chorus of greeting was hearty enough, but the journalists barely paid the courtesy of acknowledgment. His eyes swept the horizon eagerly until it rested on the cloud of volcanic smoke billowing up across the setting sun. A sigh of relief escaped him.

"Where are we?" he asked Barnett. "I mean since you picked me up. How long ago was that anyway?"

"Yesterday," replied the navigating officer. "We're stood off and on looking for some of our men."

"Then that's the same volcano?" Barnett laughed softly. "Well, they aren't quite holding a caucus of volcanoes down in this country. One like that is enough."

"But Slade brushed the remark aside. 'Lead for it,' he cried excitedly. 'We may be in time! There's a man on that island!'

"A man?" "Another?" "Not Billy Edwards?" "Not some of our boys?" Slade stared at them bewildered.

"Told on," interposed Dr. Treadon authoritatively. "What's his name?" he inquired of the journalist.

"Darrow," replied the latter. "Percy Darrow. Do you know him?"

"Who in Kamchatka is Percy Darrow?" demanded Forsythe.

"Why, he's the assistant. It's a long story."

"Of course it's a long story. There's a lot we want to know," interrupted Captain Parkinson. "Quartermaster, head for the volcano, yonder. Mr. Slade, we want to know where you came from, and why you left the schooner and why Percy Darrow is. And there's dinner, so we'll adjourn to the messroom and hear what you can tell us. But there's one thing we're all anxious to know—how came you in the dory which we found and left on the Laughing Lass later than two days ago?"

"I haven't set eyes on the Laughing Lass for—well, I don't know how long, but it's five days anyway, perhaps more," replied Slade.

"They stared at him incredulously. 'Oh, I see!' he burst out suddenly. 'There were two dories on the schooner. The other one's still there, I suppose. Did you find her on the stern davits?'

KING OF THROAT AND LUNG REMEDIES

hint from Dr. Treadon, conversed on indifferent subjects until the journalist had partaken heartily of what the physician allowed him. Slade ate with keen appreciation.

"I tell you, that's good," he sighed, when he had finished. "Real live, after dinner coffee too. Why, gentlemen, I haven't eaten a civilized meal, with all the trimmings, for over two years. Doctor, do you think a little of the real stuff would hurt me? It's a pretty dry yearling."

"One glass," growled the surgeon. "No more."

"Scotch highball, then," voted Slade. "The higher the better."

The steward brought a tall glass, with ice, in which the newcomer mixed his drink. Then for quite a minute he sat about, staring at the table, his fingers aimlessly rubbing into spots of wetness the water beads as they gathered on the outside of his glass. Suddenly he looked up.

"Don't know how to begin," he confessed. "It's too confoundedly horrible. I hardly believe it myself, now that I'm sitting here in human clothes, surrounded by human beings. Old Scrubs and the nigger and Handy Solomon and the professor and the chest and the—well, they were real enough when I was caught in the mess. But I warn you you are not going to believe me, and hangd if I blame you a bit."

"We've seen marvels ourselves in the last few days," encouraged Captain Parkinson.

"Fire ahead, man," advised Barnett impatiently. "Just begin at the beginning and let it go at that."

Slade slipped at his glass reflectively. "Well," said he at length, "the best way to begin is to show you how I happened to be picked up in it all."

The officers unconsciously relaxed into attitudes of greater ease. Overhead the lamps swayed gently to the swell. The dull thrub of the screw pulsed. Stewards clad in white moved noiselessly, filling the glasses, deftly striking lights for the smokers, clearing away the last dishes of the repast.

"I'm a reporter by choice and a detective by instinct," began Slade, with startling abruptness. "Furthermore, I'm pretty well off. I'm what they call a free lance, for I have no regular desk on any of the journals. I generally turn my staff in to the Star because they treat me well. In return I'm pretty well understood between us that I'm to use my judgment in regard to stories and that they'll stand back of me for expenses. You see, I've been with them quite awhile."

He looked around the circle as though in appeal to the comprehension of his audience. Some of the men nodded. Others slipped from their glasses or drew at their ears.

"I lost around here and there in the world, having a good time travelling, visiting, fooling around. Every once in awhile something interests me. The thing is a sort of instinct. I run it down. It's a good story, I send it in. That's all there is to it. It's laughed slightly. 'You see, I'm a sort of magazine writer in method, but my staff is newspaper stuff, also the same, suits me. That's why I play it. That's why I'm here. I have to tell you about myself this way so you will understand how I came to be mixed up in this Laughing Lass matter.'

"I remember," commented Barnett, "that when you came aboard the North Dakota you had a little trouble making Captain Arnold see it." He turned to the others with a laugh. "He had all kinds of papers of ancient date, but nothing modern—letter from the Star dated five years back, recommendations to everybody on earth except Captain Arnold, certificate of bravery in Apache campaign, bank identifications and all the rest. 'Maybe you're the Star's correspondent and maybe you're not,' said the captain. 'I don't see anything here to prove it.' Slade agreed an hour. No go. Remember how you caught him?" he inquired of Slade.

The reporter grinned assent. "After the old man had turned him down good Slade fished down in his war bag and handed out an old tattered document from an oldskink case. 'Hold on a minute,' said he, 'you old shellback. I've proved to you that I can write and I've proved to you that I have fought, and now here I'll prove to you that I can sail. If writing, fighting and sailing don't fit me adequately to report my little disturbances your antiquated washbottle may blunder into Ells to raising cabbages.' With

GOOD WORK.

Done Daily in Janesville. Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Don's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Janesville still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mrs. Annie Kohlthoff, of 230 Cherry St., Janesville, Wis., says: "Since using Don's Kidney Pills some years ago for kidney troubles and backache, I have had no hesitation in recommending them to every sufferer I have met. I had used remedy after remedy and tried plasters and did everything I know of for these complaints, but the trouble grew continually worse, and was fast undermining my general health. About 7 years ago I was in a very bad condition, and it was at that time that I learned of Don's Kidney Pills and procured a box at the People's Drug Co., Buffalo, and began using them. Good results followed quickly and a continued treatment brought me a complete cure. I have never had any kidney trouble since I used Don's Kidney Pills."

ECONOMIC CLUB HAD PLEASANT MEETING

Met at Brinkman's Hall in Afton on Thursday—Was Annual Business Meeting.

Afton, Feb. 28.—Three score members of the Household Economic club, with their invited friends, met at Brinkman's hall here last Thursday, for the annual business meeting of the club, and to enjoy a social session together. A large delegation, comprising the officers and many leading members of the organization, arrived on the C. & N. W. passenger at 9:20 a. m., and the business session convened at 10 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Ella Osgood of Janesville, presiding. Routine matters, pertaining to the welfare of the club, were considered and plans for holding the four summer meetings were selected as follows: June, with Mrs. H. C. Taylor, Orono; July, with Mrs. H. A. Egerton, Eastville; August, with Mrs. S. E. Otis, town of Rock; September, with Mrs. E. G. Brown, Hanover. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Mrs. Abbie Helms, Janesville; vice president, Mrs. Ada Kimbrey, Janesville; recording secretary, Mrs. Bessie Brown, Janesville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Donahue, Janesville; treasurer, Miss Eleanor King, Janesville; auditor, Mrs. Nettie Cory, Footville. The location of the major portion of these officials in the county was considered to be for the best interests of the club, as it would expedite the transaction of business and make it easier to plan for the regular meetings. A splendid dinner followed the adjournment of all (even the reporters, during the hour, and the remainder of the afternoon, up to train time, was devoted to "stunts" by various members, which included songs, recitations, story-telling, commiseration, whistling solos—in fact a continuous and interesting performance, highly enjoyed by all, even the most staid and dignified members joining in the general good time. Then good-byes were said until June.

The regular semi-annual meeting of the Afton Anti-Horse-thief association will be held at Brinkman's hall Tuesday evening, March 3d, at 7:30 o'clock. Any member having new names to submit for membership should present them at this meeting. The patriotic meeting of the literary society was held at the home of George C. Anttila last Tuesday evening. David Throne acted as leader and a program replete with interest was rendered. The next meeting will be held at the home of Peter Draht. C. W. Torwilliger and family moved to Hollet last Monday and P. H. Torwilliger will move to the Mrs. Arndt place next Monday. Carl Tank has moved back to his cottage on Madison street and George S. Otis is moving onto the place recently purchased by him from Mrs. Tank. Frank Blunk will move from Walworth to the old home farm vacated by Mrs. Otis and occupied by him for the past eight years.
